

Along with other educational parties, parents enable their children to integrate and successfully educate themselves.

Parents...

- get to know the curriculum during the weekly meetings
- learn how to actively promote and support their children
- actively partake in forming life at school
- get to know the German educational system
- tackle the educational language
- can share their experiences regarding parenting with other parents

Reading together

Rucksack is a program free of charge for parents and their children from first to fourth grade and for elementary schools in general. Parents should support their children on their path to educational success (homework, reading, collective activities and so forth). The State Capital Hannover, therefore, promotes the parents' and children's fluency, multilingualism and interculturality while working closely with many elementary schools.

Promoting multilingualism

Talk with each other – talking and asking questions collective activities, e. g. games excursions to extracurricular places of learning, e.g. visiting the Schulbiologiezentrum
