At the Sprengel Museum Hannover, directly alongside Maschsee Lake, you will find great names such as Picasso, Nolde or Klee. But Hannover also boasts other galleries of contemporary art that are well known far beyond the boundaries of the region: among them are the kestnergesellschaft, the Kunstverein and the Ahlers Pro Arte / Kestner Pro Arte Foundation. The State Museum (Landesmuseum) with its departments of Prehistory, Natural History and Ethnology, the State Art Gallery and the Vivarium, is a museum for the whole family. At the Museum August Kestner, the art of Ancient Egypt and other ancient civilisations stands alongside applied art and design, a coin collection and an enormous library.

Wilhelm Busch · The German Museum of Caricature and Graphic Art possesses a unique collection of satirical art from four centuries that will put a twinkle in the eyes of the whole family; it is home to Max and Moritz and all the other famous creations from the pen of Wilhelm Busch.

Herrenhausen Palace Museum opened in 2013 as a branch of the Museum of History. Organised by the state capital of Hannover and sponsored by the state of Lower Saxony, it presents changing exhibitions in the restored summer residence of the Guelph dynasty.

In the “Klosterstollen”, a preserved coal mine in Barsinghausen, visitors can don helmet and overalls and set out on the trail of the “black gold”. Laatzen Museum of Aviation is a place for those who are fascinated by the history of technology, a place where they can allow their imaginations to soar; as is also the case at the “World of Aviation” experience exhibition at Hannover Airport. And there is plenty of historical rail engineering to gape at at the Tramway Museum in Wehmingen, near Sehnde, where some of the veteran trams are even in operation.
Sprengel Museum Hannover

Focussing on German expressionism and French modern art, this museum is one of the major exhibition venues for 20th and 21st century art. Prominent exhibits feature artist groups such as “Die Brücke” (The Bridge) and “Der Blaue Reiter” (The Blue Rider), as well as works of cubism and surrealism. In addition to groups of works (Picasso, Ernst, Klee, Nolde) and Kurt Schwitters’ ‘Merzbau’, there is also an impressive collection which was presented to the museum by Niki de Saint Phalle.

2015 will see the inauguration of the striking annex, which has enlarged the museum by roughly one third.

Kunstverein Hannover

Founded in 1832, Kunstverein Hannover is one of the largest and oldest art associations in Germany. Every year, it stages up to seven themed or monographic exhibitions, focusing on contemporary art and its relationship to the regional art scene. A varied programme of guided tours, lectures, podium discussions and special events, as well as a wide range of offers for children and young adults communicate modern art and culture to the public.

Since 1983, Kunstverein Hannover has promoted young artistic talent in Germany and Lower Saxony by awarding a scholarship to the Villa Minimo in Hannover.

The museum opened in 1889 and is named after August Kestner (1777–1853), who collected Egyptian, Graeco-Roman objets d’art, paintings and graphics while serving as the Hanoverian Ambassador to Rome. After the addition of the Friedrich Culemann collection, the museum now presents 6,000 years of applied art including various exhibits which cannot be seen anywhere else in the world, such as ancient and Egyptian cultural objects, applied art and design as well as a valuable collection of coins.

Interesting aspects of art history are communicated to visitors in the form of exhibitions, guided tours, lectures and workshops.

Kestnergesellschaft

Located in the heart of Hannover, the kestnergesellschaft is one of the largest and best-known art associations in Germany. The light, airy rooms of this converted art nouveau swimming pool provide a magnificent setting where internationally acclaimed artists can show their latest works. Since 1916, this venue has presented the most exciting contemporary artists, from Joseph Beuys and Tony Cragg to Cindy Sherman and Santiago Sierra and even Andy Warhol. A highly diverse event programme that includes exhibitions, guided tours, concerts, children’s events and supporting events communicate the works and viewpoints of modern art and culture to the public.

Museum of History

If you want to explore Hannover, you should really visit the Museum of History. The museum tells the history of Hannover from the Middle Ages to the present, tracing its evolution from a market town to a city hosting international trade fairs, as well as regional history and Lower Saxon folklore. With an exhibition area of approx. 4,500 m², this is one of the largest local history museums in Germany. The medieval Begenenturm (Beguine Tower) can be visited on a guided walking tour. Special exhibitions, talks and a museum educational programme offer a stimulating gateway to its rich history.

Herrenhausen Palace Museum

In the rebuilt summer residence of the Guelph dynasty, the Herrenhausen Palace Museum relates the history of the gardens and those who enjoyed them. Be enchanted by the sumptuous visual culture of the Baroque, which offers a glimpse into life at the Hannover court. In the East wing you’ll encounter several famous personalities, such as the polymath Gottfried Wilhelm Leibniz and Electress Sophia. The Treasure Chamber displays sumptuous exhibits from the Baroque period, while the West wing presents the history of the palace gardens and their link with the present day.

Hannover State Museum

Not far from Lake Maschsee, the largest state museum in Lower Saxony beckons: from seahorses past dinosaurs, golden treasures and bog mummies to the paintings of Cranach, Rubens and Modersohn-Becker, you are led on a voyage of discovery through the five major State Museum collections. In addition to the newly designed permanent collection, the State Museum presents a programme of changing temporary exhibitions as well.

There is also a museum shop and a café with a scenic atrium. Free entrance on Fridays from 2 pm to 5 pm (excluding holidays and special exhibitions).

Wilhelm Busch – German Museum of Caricature and Critical Graphic Arts

Located in the Wallmoden Palace in Georgengarten, the museum houses the greater part of the complete works of Wilhelm Busch, including the famous illustrated tales of “Max and Moritz” as well as a collection of more than 40,000 historical and contemporary works by leading international satirical artists – from the early days of caricature to works by Hogarth, Grandville, Daumier, Goya and the creators of “Simplicissimus” right through to modern day artists such as Loriot, Ungerer, Waechter and Deix. Special exhibitions are devoted to caricature, children’s book illustrations, fashion drawings and cartoons/comics.

Steinhude Museums

Fishing and Weaving Museum

A typical Steinhude half-timbered house built in 1850 and located directly on the banks of Lake Steinhude, complete with the typical furniture, has been converted into a museum which portrays the history of fishing and weaving. Exquisite woven items and a handloom, a peat barge, creels and smokers in this largely unchanged building convey an authentic picture of the predominant occupations.

Toy Museum

The collection is displayed in the Fishing and Weaving Museum building. Toys that belonged to the upper classes from ca. 1860 to 1960 indicate the typical gender roles during that era: fine china head dolls for girls, technical tin toys for boys.

The first floor takes visitors on a trip through the ages, from the first traces of toys in the Mesolithic Age to tin soldiers and cuddly soft toys.

Marienburg Castle

The castle is now a museum and an important cultural location in Hannover Region. The authentically preserved summer residence of the Guelph dynasty takes visitors on a trip back through the ages with guided tours through the different rooms in the palace. The inner courtyard provides a charming setting for open-air concerts and other events.

Exhibition Mine

Visitors to the former Klosterstollen mine can look forward to a fascinating trip in the footsteps of the old miners. The exhibition shows mining tools, typical miners’ clothing, Davy lamps and other traditional implements, creating the right mood for a trip down below ground. In the main gangway of the pit, qualified guides provide visitors with interesting facts and figures about mining.

Insect Museum

Minute and delicate, fluttery and colourful, burly and impressive: with more than 100,000 exhibits, the Insect Museum reveals the diversity of the world of bugs, butterflies and insects. The adjacent free-flight hall allows about 600 gorgeously-coloured butterflies to flutter around.

Wöhler-Dusche-Hof

Wöhler-Dusche Farm Museum is a listed building that dates back to the late 16th century. The ensemble consists of the main farmhouse, a traditional half-timbered building with two central rows of supporting posts, open barn, cottage garden and bakehouse. All parts of the building have been authentically preserved on the original location.
The map does not show the museums in the surrounding region (Nos. 17-25).
