

Witness Accounts Round 3

The police have questioned the other witnesses.
The inspector now confronts the suspects with the results.
The exposure of the perpetrator is imminent.

The following pieces of evidence 3.1 to 3.8 will be distributed among those present and they will introduce it into the discussion.

Exhibits 3.9 and 3.10 are laid open for all to see.

Alternatively, all evidence can be laid open for all to see.

WITNESS ACCOUNT 3.1

by Mary Busy,
shop assistant in the ShopHere supermarket

Andrew came to our supermarket at 7.30 that evening.
He was in a great hurry and dropped some things off the shelf, but at least helped to put them back in.
Shortly afterwards Frank entered our shop and Rebecca was there as well.
I don't know what they bought,
as I was busy putting things back into the shelves.

WITNESS ACCOUNT 3.2

by Pia Gdansk, colleague of Natalia's

Boy, was there a lot going on in the kitchen today!

There were constantly people coming in who had no business there:
first it was Rebecca, then at a quarter to eight Yusuf, and later Nikos came in, too.

And these are only the ones who got into the kitchen coming from the hall.

I can't see the toilets.

I'll grant you that: in a murder case you have to be honest, after all...

I got the bulk of my salary in cash. I am not registered for tax.

WITNESS ACCOUNT 3.3

by Greta Meier,
a friend of Nikos'

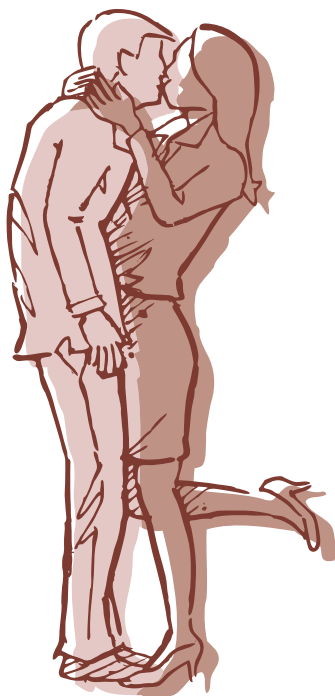

I know that Kevin gave Nikos a loan of £ 25,000 for his organic food truck; interest-free and only on handshake!

I don't think he could ever have repaid that...

WITNESS ACCOUNT 3.4

by Harriet O'Rourke,
a visitor to the event

Hard to believe!
At about ten to seven, I went to the bathroom and saw Rebecca and Kevin kissing.

WITNESS ACCOUNT 3.5

by Siri Mutmarel,
a cleaner working at the venue

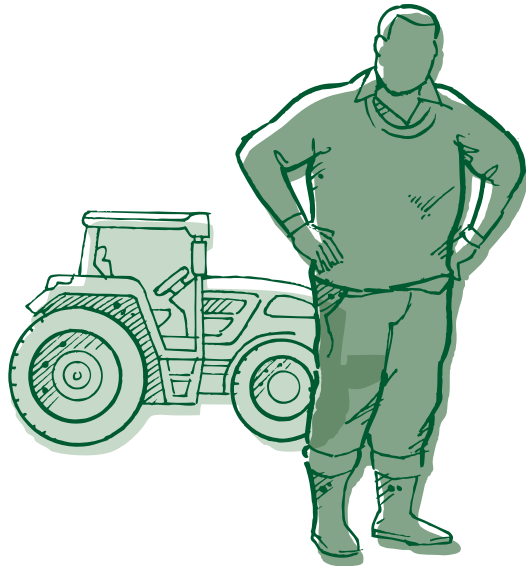

I hate it, when rubbish is not separated properly!
In the residual waste in front of the venue I found some torn paper earlier.
But that belongs in the blue bin, doesn't it!

I plucked it out and was going to confront the person who threw it out.
So I puzzled the pieces together – it was the script of tonight's keynote speaker.
I was going to give Mr Doogood a piece of my mind. But now he is dead...

WITNESS ACCOUNT 3.6

by Henry Renquist,
employee of John Rock's

I can understand that John should be mad at Kevin.
After all, he took his daughter from him.
He wasn't even invited to the wedding!

A few weeks ago, Jane visited and tried to 'convert' my boss to switch to organic meat.
You can well imagine how the conversation ended...
The boss was so angry, I thought I was in for it.
'One of these fine days I'll take your husband, this carrot-eating do-gooder, to task!', he shouted. And that was even before the official veterinarian visited the farm!

WITNESS ACCOUNT 3.7

by Jeanette von Stein,
a visitor to the event

I saw Jane rush out of the room at half past seven.
And then I saw Andrew go to the bathroom at a quarter to eight.
He did not return until around eight.

WITNESS ACCOUNT 3.8

by Fianna Patents,
intern in Rebecca's office

Kevin came into our office once and Rebecca offered him nut cookies.
All he said was, 'Good Lord! Are you trying to kill me?'

EXHIBIT 3.9

Disposable gloves,
found in the dustbin in the foyer
